Hazing and Punishments.
To the Editor of The Star:
It is surely a subject for congratulation that the President has at last taken a hand against the wholesale slaughter of the innocents. In his letter to the chairmen of the committees on naval affairs he very freely expresses what has been the opinion of the general public since the first midshipman was tried and dismissed for hazing. To quote the President's own words: "The punishment of dismissal is altogether disproportionate to the culpability involved in some forms of hazing." It is, however, regrettable that a half score of bright young fellows suffered this "disproportionate punishment" before the President's keen intellect awakened to the fact that any injustice was being done. When the case of young Mann was tried and dismissed, and with his name so noticeably on this addition that the public were fully prepared for his acquittal, which followed almost immediately. Now a pardon has been asked and granted to Midshipman Miller. According to the facts, no matter how shown, no cruelty proven, and so the young man was deserving of and received his pardon. There can be no question in the eyes of a fair-minded people that if the case of Miller should have been pardoned. His offense was comparatively nothing. But how about the others, who, if the process is to be believed, were equally guilty? In only one case was the slightest cruelty proven, that of the midshipman who hazed young Kingrough, and with whose trial started this mighty movement, in which the officers in charge at the academy have shown up in a most disgraceful manner. Take the case of Decatur. Even with two trials and the application of the forgery law, the court proved next to nothing, yet the President was so lenient, dismissed the President not having awakened to the fact that any injustice was being done. The case of Miller, which aroused all public sympathy—how of that? True, it still hangs fire. Common sense would require that the President should have promptly and speedily acquitted or pardoned. The lad had surely suffered enough without this piling on the agony by the "powers." Every witness testified in his favor. Nothing but boyish fun was proved at the trial, and yet we hear his case is "undecided." If the facts are as stated, we wonder the youth resigning. Human nature had surely been tried to the utmost. It seems to be the almost universal opinion that the President is "soft" on the hazing. Of their findings much may be thought. Little may be said, but absolutely nothing will be understood, save that we bow to the powers that be. ELIZABETH LEE.

Eat that You Like

DON'T STARVE OR DIET, BUT USE MI-ONA.
AND CURE YOUR STOMACH TROUBLES.
The average treatment of stomach troubles consists of a rigid diet list, which often starves the patient. Of course, it would be foolish for any one who knows that some foods are positively harmful, and others are positively good, to starve even while following the Mi-ona treatment, but in ordinary cases of stomach troubles it is not necessary to starve or diet if Mi-ona is faithfully used. This scientific remedy, for the cure of stomach troubles, acts upon the whole digestive system, and strengthens the organs so that they are able to digest any food that is eaten without fear of distress. If you suffer from loss of appetite, belching of gases, sour taste in the mouth, turned tongue, severe pain in the region of the stomach, depression of spirits, bad dreams, lack of energy, a stomach cough, offensive breath, headaches, back-aches, loss of strength and weight, you can be assured that these troubles are all due to imperfect digestion. Strengthen the stomach by taking a Mi-ona tablet before each meal, and soon you will gain in weight, strength and weight, and your food will give nourishment to that the rich red blood will carry good health to every part of the system. Mi-ona costs but 50c. a box. If you cannot obtain Mi-ona of your druggist, it will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price. Sample sufficient to show its value will be forwarded on request. Levi C. Hay Resigns From Government Printing Office.

CAUSES NUMEROUS RUMORS

Office of Superintendent of Old Building Abolished.

GENERAL ORDERS ISSUED TODAY

Inspection Division Created, With Chief and Assistants—Strict Rules of Discipline.

Another surprise was sprung today at the government printing office when the announcement was made that one of the veteran foremen, Levi C. Hay, of the job printing department, had resigned. There was much speculation as to the reasons why he had resigned. It was generally supposed that the public service, and the report of his resignation was followed by the usual flood of rumors as to wholesale dismissals and reductions. A reporter of The Star learned that the resignation was the result of a reprimand Mr. Hay received from Mr. Charles A. Stillings, the public printer, regarding the manner in which he had performed his duties, and which, it is said, was not satisfactory to Mr. Stillings. It was reported that Mr. Hay tendered his resignation rather than meet the new conditions. He was appointed from Kansas, it is said, when Mr. Palmer was first made public printer. Then, when the democratic party came into power, Mr. Stillings was appointed. Mr. Hay tendered his resignation as foreman of the job room. When Mr. Stillings was appointed, he returned to power, and Mr. Palmer was again appointed public printer, one of his first acts was to appoint Mr. Hay to the foreman position, and he held the place continuously ever since. This was accomplished, it is stated, by President McKinley setting aside the civil service law in order to bring about Mr. Hay's appointment as foreman of executive printing, he being then accredited to Indiana.

An Office Abolished.

Another important change made today by Public Printer Stillings was the abolition of the office of superintendent of the old government printing office building, which action necessitated the resignation of the superintendent, Capt. W. L. Hinds as such. He was immediately, however, assigned to other duties about the printer. It was stated by an official of the printer that the duties devolving upon the superintendent of the old building were very light and that the same could be handled without putting too great a burden on the superintendent of buildings and chief engineer, Mr. H. K. Collins, the office was abolished and the duties transferred to the latter official.

This will make a saving to the government on the salary list. An official of the printer reported that the public printer does not believe in having two men do one man's work. The new chief inspector, Mr. Charles S. Brown, is actively at work, and it is the expectation that he will soon discover other places in the nature of sinecures about the big printing office that can be either consolidated or abolished altogether. The long blasts that were heretofore sounded on the big basso profundo steam whistle at the government printing office at night, and which awake the echoes in that vicinity, will be heard no more by order of Mr. Stillings. The public printer said an official this afternoon, "is always ready to right any wrong that may have been committed, provided it can be cleared up. It is him that is the case. At the beginning of the session of Congress in December the foreman of printing, to whom the chief engineer was then responsible, ordered the whistle to be blown for the notification of the employees of the arrival of the lunch time at 11 o'clock and its conclusion at 11:30 p.m."

Response to Complaint.

Recently a communication was received by the public printer calling attention to the fact that the neighbors in the vicinity of the printing office were annoyed by the blasts of the whistle and their sleep disturbed. The writer asked if some other method could not be devised for notifying the night forces of the lunch period. Mr. Stillings immediately took up the matter, and the result was that the whistle was not blown any more at night, and the neighbors can sleep in peace. The substitute method adopted in the press room is the sounding of a big gong. In the other divisions the timekeepers call "Time" in a loud tone of voice.

Orders Issued Today.

Mr. Charles A. Stillings, the public printer, today issued general orders, Nos. 4, 5, 6 and 7, as follows: "General order No. 4, series 1906—The inspection division is hereby created, to consist of a chief inspector and as many assistants as the government may require, and will be under the direct supervision of the public printer. "Mr. Charles S. Brown is hereby appointed to the position of chief inspector, his appointment to date from February 12, 1906. "It will be the duty of the chief inspector and his assistants to inspect the work of the government printing office upon which the public printer desires information. "All officers and employees of the government printing office will render the chief inspector and the assistant inspectors all aid possible in the performance of their duties without comment or objection. "Each foreman will notify all employees under his direction of this appointment. For Employees Only. "General order No. 5, series 1906—On and after this date only those officers and employees of the government printing office who are on duty will be allowed within the works or branch offices, and then only when actually on duty or during the lunch period. "All officers or employees who are on leave of absence or on furlough or who have been excused will not be allowed within the works or branch offices, and when they are on duty, except by written authority of the public printer. "Certain tradesmen, the nature of whose business requires their entering the works or branch offices, will be furnished with a numbered pass permitting them to do so, only long enough to transact their business there; after which they must retire therefrom. "All other persons will only be permitted to enter the government printing office buildings through the main entrance of the new building, on North Capitol street, and must secure a pass signed by either the public printer or the chief clerk before being allowed to go through the works, and then only when accompanied by an official of the printer. "Officers or employees desiring to be excused for a short period during the working day will secure a pass from the foreman of the division in which they are employed, which they will surrender to the watchman; should they desire to return during that day they will fill out an admission card at the North Capitol street entrance of the building in which they are employed. "Officers are hereby cautioned to observe the above instructions carefully."

Reporting for Duty.

"General order No. 6, series 1906—It has come to the attention of the public printer that certain officers of the government printing office are the last to report for duty in the morning and afternoon and the first to leave at the noon and closing hours.

"It is therefore ordered that all foremen, assistant foremen and other officers shall be at their places promptly at 8 o'clock in the morning; shall not leave for lunch until the closing-down whistle has blown at 12 o'clock noon; shall be promptly at their places at 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and shall not leave their divisions until after the closing-down whistle has blown at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. "The public printer expects his officers to give their best executive ability and knowledge of the craft for the benefit of the government. "Any foreman or other officer who continues to willfully or carelessly violate this order will be reduced to the ranks."

Visiting Prohibited.

"General order No. 7, series 1906—All officers and employees of the government printing office, when on duty, will attend strictly to their own affairs and abstain entirely from visiting other portions of the division in which they are employed, or other officers or employees in other divisions, unless entirely in the line of duty. "Messengers, electricians, machinists, carpenters or others assigned to temporary duty in any portion of the works, will observe this order carefully and refrain from conversation or otherwise interfering with other employees. "Each foreman will see to it that this order is enforced, and will immediately suspend any person employed in his division who willfully or carelessly violates the same. "Employees violating this order when in another division than their own shall, upon request of the foreman complaining, be immediately suspended from the division to which they are assigned."

HOUSE INQUIRY AT ANNAPOLIS.

Subcommittee Goes to Work at the Naval Academy.

The congressional inquiry into affairs at the Naval Academy began at Annapolis yesterday afternoon with the arrival of the subcommittee of the House committee on naval affairs. After a conference with Rear Admiral Sands at his residence, the committee occupied the quarters assigned them in the Officers' Club and began work in the room in which the Meriwether trail, which marked the beginning of the troubles which the present administration of the academy is facing, was held. The coming of the congressional committee is the thinking the midshipmen who are concerned in the trouble, and few are not have most earnestly desired for months. One of the men who got his diploma yesterday morning declared as he left for home this morning that it would be the best thing that ever happened for the academy and the men unless it proved to be only a pleasure junket. "It will show that officers are concerned, and that's the best justification the men in the academy can have for what they have done. The men will be more willing to talk before a congressional delegation than before any court-martial or set of officers that ever existed. It's enough to tempt a fellow to stay around and watch the doings." The committee did little yesterday except to get the testimony taken by the board of investigation at the academy and that of the court-martial. Mr. Edward H. Vreeland of New York is the chairman, and the other members who arrived are Messrs. S. P. Padgett of Tennessee, George A. Loud of Missouri, A. F. Dawson of Iowa and A. W. Gregg of Texas. Mr. Vreeland said last night that probably the sessions would be behind closed doors, but he was not sure of this. He declared he was very willing to hear the midshipmen's side of the trouble and was positive that this would be a strong point.

SENTENCES APPROVED.

Action of the President on Several Court-Martial Cases.

The President has approved the sentences of the court-martial in the two cases against First Lieut. Sidney S. Burbank, who was tried in the Philippines. In one case he was charged with making false official statements with respect to the alleged marriage to a Filipino woman, and in the other with embezzlement of company funds. He was sentenced to dismissal in each case, but in the latter he was sentenced in addition to imprisonment for fifteen months. The President has also approved the sentences of the court-martial in the two cases against Second Lieut. Homer B. Lewis of the 30th Infantry, who was tried at Fort Crook, Neb., on charges of duplicating his pay accounts and embezzlement of company funds. In both cases he was sentenced to dismissal, but in the latter was given an additional sentence of eighteen months' imprisonment.

On Good Terms With Castro.

Senor Velez, the Venezuelan charge d'affaires called at the State Department yesterday and offered to Secretary Root a volume published by the Venezuelan government containing in Spanish, French, German and English the official correspondence which led up to the trouble between Venezuela and the French Cable Company. This volume was not presented to the Secretary of State in an official way, but merely as a matter of information. The charge d'affaires also informed Mr. Root that according to the information received by him, Mr. Russell was on the best of terms with President Castro, and the relations between the diplomatic representative of the United States and the Venezuelan government were very cordial.

JUDGE RUSSELL'S PLATFORM.

His Views on Public Questions Expresed in Rhyme. Judge R. B. Russell of Windsor, Ga., has resigned his position on the bench to become a candidate for governor of his state on a rhetorical platform. The platform, heavily swaddled in verse, has been received at the Capitol, and is viewed rather in the light of a curiosity. This is the way it jots along: "Others dead in generalities in railroad rates. Two-cent-a-mile passenger fares he advocates. Favors child labor bill in the interest of education. Do you know of a better plan to enlighten the nation? Was for eight hours of labor twenty years ago. Where his opponents stood then their record don't show. He advocates removing a tax burden that stings. By exempting three hundred dollars of household things. Prohibition will prohibit and never fail. When place of delivery becomes place of sale. An issue too live for the other candidates. He wants a commissioner of labor, by the people elected. That our state may never by strikes be affected. From every corporate or 'rig' influence free. He would protect every sort of honest industry. You see, his platform deals with questions much bigger. While others devote all their time to the nigger. The Georgia representatives in the House seem to think that if Judge Russell's campaign proceeds as haltingly as his platform, the judge doesn't stand much show of realizing his ambition."

LAID TO THE BLACK HAND.

New York Saloon Wrecked by Dynamite Early Today. NEW YORK, February 14.—A dynamite explosion, declared to have been the work of the "Black Hand" fraternity, completely wrecked the interior of the saloon of John De Lesso, at 4th avenue and 20th street, Brooklyn, early today. The windows of houses adjoining also were broken by the concussion. De Lesso, who is the owner of eight or nine houses in the neighborhood of his saloon and is reputed to be wealthy, said that he received a letter signed "The Black Hand," demanding $2,000, about a year ago. The letter was turned over to the police, and a trap was laid for the blackmailers, but it failed. Since that time De Lesso said he had received additional letters threatening him with death and the kidnapping of one of his children. He said today that he paid no attention to these threats, and declared that he would not pay one cent of tribute money. He offered a reward of $1,000 for the apprehension of the perpetrators of today's outrage.

PROPOSED BIG SMELTER.

Syndicate to Build Establishment Near Port Costa, Cal.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 14.—The Guggenheims and Rockefeller, through their recently formed American Smelters Securities Company, have decided to build a $3,500,000 smelter at a point a mile back from Port Costa, and ground will be broken for the big establishment early next summer. The old Selby smelter on the bay shore a few miles beyond West Berkeley will be abandoned when the new smelter is completed. Fumes from the Selby plant have been for years poisoning the surrounding vegetation, and farmers have suits for damages pending against that plant on that account. It is said the new plant will have a location that will not give rise to such damage suits in the future. It is said by some of the interested people that the building of a big smelter close by the establishment of copper manufacturing plants in San Francisco, and the prediction is made that within a couple of years copper wire and other copper products will be manufactured here.

Japanese Financial Program.

LONDON, February 14.—The second edition of the London Times today published a dispatch from Tokyo saying that the financial program of the cabinet, which has passed the lower house, will undoubtedly be endorsed by the upper house. According to the program the war debts, which will aggregate $11,000,000 in 1907, will be completely paid off in 1909, during which time there will be six operations of conversion. The program shows that the domestic debts, now amounting to $287,500,000, will be entirely discharged in 1912.

A movement by a group of well-known New York men to establish in that city a theater designed to foster and develop dramatic art was described yesterday by Charles T. Barney, one of the founders.
